DownloadIf you've got a little one in your life that's an avid videogames fan, you're probably going to enjoy these Portal 2 collectibles for her. Surprise! The evil Aperture Science is a manufacturer of mind control machines used to brainwash test subjects into sex slaves. Now, the good folks at Valve are releasing a series of collectibles based on the protagonist's girlfriend and fellow Aperture scientist Amy, also known as 'Portal 2 Companion Figure', and Portal 2 Companion Figure 2." To quote Valve, "The figures are 10cm tall and made of a soft EVA material. The figure's eyes and mouth are sculpted separately from the rest of the figure and painted separately. This allows for finer details to be painted and the eyes to have more expressive range of motion. The figures are designed to be painted by gamers to create a portrait. "The figures are available in a bundle of four that includes Portal 2 Companion Figure 2 and two Portal 2 Companion Figures."American Society for Microbiology Statement on Health Care Reform. The microbial world impacts directly upon our well-being, and indirectly upon the health of the general public. How humans and their microbial inhabitants affect each other may determine the fate of millions of lives. One set of significant changes in the United States is the passage of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA). Starting in 2014, these reforms are expected to affect the care of millions of people, changes in licensing and registration of medical practice, and decisions on reimbursement. Also, the future of health care providers in the United States could change with the direct implications for the practice of medicine. Beginning with the new PPACA rules, the American Society for Microbiology has prepared a document, titled "Setting the
