You can start screensaver with F1 or F2 keys. If you change 3D Screensaver settings to random, it will show you the different environments. If you enable/disable advanced rendering mode, you can see the FX including sun flares, clouds and motion blur. Helicopter mode allows you to experience flying freely. You can turn the helicopter to look around the landscape, or to look inside the canyon. Preview the camera view. You can see a bird's eye view or a ground view. You can start playing music or other FX screensaver by pressing the corresponding key. If you press Escape key, you will return to normal mode and all screensaver will stop.

Contact: A call for independent research into the health effects of smart meter installation and the effect of exposure to radiofrequency (RF) radiation. Public Health England has advised against the installation of new smart meters because the technology may be "harmful to health". Concern about health effects from exposure to RF radiation was recently raised at a public meeting held by the European Union Network of Citizens' Associations for Radiation Protection (EURNAP) and reported by the European Commission and the European Agency for Network and Information Security. The call for independent research is supported by the Radiation Protection Division of the International Agency for Research on Cancer and other experts.
